James Madison College is one of three residential colleges at Michigan State University recently named by US News and World Report as a "Program to Look For" in their annual ranking of America's best colleges. James Madison specializes in the study of public and international affairs. We invite high school students interested in government, history, law, economics, sociology, philosophy, and international affairs to join us for this informational session. MSU Admissions Representatives will be on hand to provide information and answer questions. Learn more by visiting our websites:
